- Same-store growth

Today’s question

Which single number do you pick, and what is the one question you ask her first?

Bonus question

Revenue is the obvious pick. Give one reason it is the wrong one here.

My Answer

“ One question first, then one number. ”

Step 1 : The question

“ What are the investors deciding on Tuesday? ”

19:41

New outlets?

Fund existing stores to expand?

New product lineup?

Step 2 : The one number

Store contribution margin

Own costs taken out

Rent

Staff

Utilities

Cost of goods

Delivery fee

Investors ask: Will it make money?

“ Investors want to know what an outlet earns after all its costs. ”

Bonus Answer

“ Revenue shows activity, not profit. ”

Koramangala

Rank 1

August revenue ₹ 24.60 Lakh

Expenses

Rent	₹ 5.80 Lakh
Staff	₹ 7.10 Lakh
Delivery apps	₹ 2.83 Lakh
Cost of goods	₹ 7.87 Lakh
Utilities and other	₹ 1.72 Lakh

Leftover – ₹ 0.72 Lakh

Big revenue grabs our attention, and we forget to ask what is left after the costs.

Even the top store in revenue cannot claim “ best ” in terms of profit.

Day 13 lesson

Choose the number for the decision, not the dashboard
